OUT OF WHACK

Without intentionality, family priorities can easily become out of whack. As Christians, our priorities should be 1. God 2. Relationships 3. Work/Stuff, but often we get that backward. A keen observer recently said, "People should be loved and things should be used. There's a real problem when things are loved and people are used."

In addition to Daybreak Family Camp's balanced schedule of rest and recreation, our guest speakers Aaron & Amy Redelsperger will use biblical teachings and their own experiences to encourage and equip families to prioritize their relationships with God and one another.

Aaron and Amy have been married for 16 years. They met at Cascade College in Portland, Oregon where Aaron earned his Bachelors degree in Biblical Studies, and Amy received her Bachelors degree in Interdisciplinary Studies (Communications, Sociology and Bible). After college Aaron was on the ministry staff at the Cordova Church of Christ for fifteen years and served many years at Daybreak Camp. Today, they live in Mount Shasta, California celebrating 5 years in ministry at the Weed Church of Christ and love living in their small mountain town. Aaron is a Licensed Vocational Nurse who is also attending school to become a Registered Nurse. Amy is very involved in the local community where she teaches ballet and home schools their three children: Grace 14, Noraa 12 and Sam 10. We are excited to have their family with us!
